

I feel that XM radio and Sirius should be allowed to provide local content to their subscribers. Just as people are willing to pay for 'premium' cable such as HBO , I have found that regular local radio can't hold to satellite radio in delivering WHAT I want to hear, WHEN I want to hear it...why shouldn't that extend to local weather and news too?? If the NAB doesn't like it, let them work on offering less commercials and more substance...two things XM has been doing since day one.

Sincerely,
Saroj Misra
